Introduction

This Themed Resource List was produced as part of the process of developing a postgraduate Continuing Professional Development (CPD) module for lecturers who wish to build, or enhance, Community Engaged Research and Learning (CERL) projects in the modules they teach, as part of the Higher Education curriculum. CERL (or service-learning, as it can be known) is a high-impact activity in Higher Education (Kuh, 2008), increasing student engagement and learning. CERL also supports community goals and makes teaching more interesting for lecturers.

The module was designed to build capacity among lecturers for CERL, including developing relevant knowledge, skills, attitudes and values. Our approach to the module aligned with CERL as a pedagogy, which involves authentic, experiential learning, driven by collaboration and engaged participation, and underpinned by reflection.

This innovative postgraduate online module, on reimagining and redesigning modules/courses to embed CERL into the curriculum in Higher Education, was developed as part of the CIRCLET (Curriculum Innovation through Research with Communities: Learning circles of Educators and Technology) Erasmus+ Strategic Partnership project (2019-2022). The module work was led by TU Dublin, with significant support and inputs from the CIRCLET project team (see more details in the module guide).

Sources on evaluating CERL

- Holland, B.A. (2001). A Comprehensive Model for Assessing Service-Learning and Community-University Partnerships. New Directions for Higher Education, 51-60. <https://doi.org/10.1002/he.13>
Link to pdf: https://www.ufs.ac.za/docs/librariesprovider43/service-learning-documents/articles-documents/art_holland-2001-549-eng.pdf?sfvrsn=8507f021_0
Note slight differences in terminology: the author uses 'assessment' where we are using 'evaluation', to distinguish it from the process of grading student work, which we are calling 'assessment'. She calls CERL 'service-learning'.
Further reading with more details of the indicators which Holland refers to can be found here:
- Driscoll, A., Holland, B., Gelmon, S., and Kerrigan, S. (1996). Read pages 3-8, and pages 26-40. Note this article uses similar terminology to the Holland article above – i.e. 'assessment' for what we would call 'evaluation'. Also note that this is focused on schools but can easily be tweaked for universities.
